Synopsis

This is the story of a little girl with a world entirely of fantasy and imagination. She and her family embark on a journey to reach the city of dreams and opportunities. They start this migration to a mountainous region on the border. During this challenging and dangerous journey, they confront gunfire from border guards. The girl is thrown into a vast wood and is found by a mysterious person who introduces himself as Gabone. She initially fears Gabone's suspicious behavior, but friendship blossoms gradually.

They start a dangerous adventure, leaving the large jungle to find the girl's parents. They face numerous dangers, and she acquires various abilities along the journey.

Eventually, she learns the significance of peace and friendship with nature and cultivating hope and kindness for a better life.
